Thailand at a glance

The global specialty food ingredients market is projected to grow at a CAGR of 5.30% during the forecast period (2021-2026).

Thailand is the 13th largest food exporter in the world by its consistent quality and offers a variety of product lines in different markets.

According to Euromonitor International, Retail sales of meat substitutes are forecast to remain ahead of milk alternatives and to grow more quickly, at a year-on-year average of 4% from 2022 to 2025 (versus 3% for milk alternatives). Free-from dairy yoghurt is forecast to grow more quickly, by a year-on-year average of 8%, but from a much lower base.

According to National Food Institute, food exports are expected to fetch $ 35.820 billion in 2022, which is likely to be a new record for food exports.

In the Food market, volume is expected to amount to 25,807.4mkg by 2027. The Food market is expected to show a volume growth of 3.9% in 2024. And the average volume per person in the Food market is expected to amount to 323.13kg in 2023.

The long-established trend toward proactively managing health and well-being has been brought into sharper focus by the COVID-19 pandemic, according to the Innova Market Insights,

According to Euromonitor's 2020 Lifestyles Survey, more than half of South East Asian consumers believe that they will be healthier in five years than they are now, and they believe that climate change will impact them more, five years from now. It is considerations such as this that will shape demand and opportunities for purposeful food both now and in the future.

What Others' Praises About Fi Asia Thailand 2022

The overall feedback from attendees was that they made valuable business contacts with customers and potential distributors, generated sales leads and gained valuable insights into the food and beverage market in Thailand and neighboring countries, which they expect will have a positive impact on their business. But don't take our word for it.

Fi Asia 2022 provides food producers with opportunities to source ingredients for their products, especially with future food demand trends. This is a great opportunity for visitors who come to Food ingredients Asia to source ingredients and learn more about innovations in alternative proteins. Consumer demand has now changed, with more focus on health and sustainability. So, this is a great opportunity for us as producers to find more alternative proteins and innovations for product development.

Finally, I offer my sincere congratulations to Fi Asia 2022, and I wish you all a successful event. I personally want to invite those who are looking for the alternative protein options – there's a lot to gain from this show.

The Pavilion at Fi Asia Thailand 2023

The Specialized Pavilions

Beverage Ingredients Pavilion

Due to the high demand from the market for a dedicated area for the beverage industry we're delighted to share that we're bringing you the Beverage Ingredients (Bi) Pavilion.

Natural Ingredients Pavilion

Natural is a major growth driver in the F&B industry, with end consumers looking for ingredients that they recognise as naturally-occurring and free from chemicals - closely linked to the drive for 'clean labels' in finished products. Dedicated to the plant, animal, mineral or microbial ingredients present in or produced by nature and directly extracted using simple methods.

New Business Pavilion

Open to all first time exhibitors at Fi Asia Thailand, this is a specially promoted area on the show floor with competitively priced booths. Visitors are always attracted to this area as it's the go-to place to find the hottest new start-ups and new products in the food ingredients industry.

Health Ingredients Pavilion

The Health ingredients pavilion is dedicated to the ingredients that add a specific value and / or fortification to finished food and beverage products. These are ingredients with proven health benefits in terms of contribution to digestive, cognitive, or physical health, or immunity.

The Country Pavilions

Pavilions dedicated to companies from specific countries or regions, aimed at promoting products from these regions to visitors from all around the world. The pavilions are hosted jointly with leading industry associations.
